BISHOP KNICKERBACKER'S STAMPS.

He Sells Half a Million and Has Almost as Many More.

At the beginning of Lent Bishop Knickerbacker made a call to the parishes of the State, to have the members save all their cancelled postage stamps through Lent and send them to him at Easter time. The Bishop made a collection of stamps some time ago and had about 500,000. These he sold to Scott, of New York, and for them he received $95.74. The proceeds of the stamp sales all go to the home which is to be erected by the Episcopalians. For the past week the stamps have been pouring into the Bishop's residence. They come in all sorts of packages, done up in every conceivable way and vary in amounts. The donors have not been limited to the State, and there is no part of the State that has not contributed to the collection, Mrs. Hannah Chapman and her mother sent forty thousand from Eau Claire, Wis. The Hishop Knickerbacker class of Grace Church, Utica, N. Y., sent 6,500; a large package came from Purcell, I. T., and others come from Minnesota, Michigan and Wisconsin. The call was for 500,000, and the Bishop feels certain that he has that many if not more. He has kept a list of all the donors and the numbers but has not added the amounts. He is very much interested and when he commenced the collection for the first half million, his friends and members of his family laughed at him for trying it, but his success has spurred him to renewed effort, and the friends laugh no

The West Indianapolis Council met last night and appointed precinct inspectors for the coming election as follows: First precinct, Clay Maloy; Second, Charles O. Wilfiams; third, S. A. Morgan; Fourth, Samuel Peak; Fifth, James Sylvester; Sixth, James Kyle, and Seventh, Theodore Badger. The clerks were instructed to order 1,590 ballots for the coming election. City officers will be elected to serve from May until Sept. 3, in addition to the ones to serve the full term of four years beginning on September 3.

Mahaffy Went to Demolish.

Yesterday afternoon, about 2 o'clock, Robert Mahaffy, in an intoxicated condition, went into the barber shop at No. 90 North Illinois street and signified his intention of demolishing the place. Cash Carter, who was present at the time, took up the quarrel and struck Mahaffy in the face. The two were engaged in a rough-and-tumble fight when found by Sergeant Kurtz and detective Kinney, who arrested them on charges of assault and battery.

ASPHALT NOW WANTED

Many South Meridian-Street People Protest Against the Brick.

New Move in the Alabama-Street Remonstrance-Asphalt Ordered on the North Side.

The question of the material to be used in the pavement of South Meridian street was again before the Board of Public Works yesterday. A number of the business men upon the street, headed by D. P. Erwin, appeared before the board and asked that the street be paved with asphalt instead of brick, as decided upon by the board. The petitions have been presented to the board, one asking that the street be paved with asphalt and the other that brick be used. In some instances the same names appear upon each petition, which is explained by the anxiety that the improvement of the street be begun, the signers being willing to accept any material that will make a good street. Mr. Erwin asked the board to disregard the wishes of the property owners and heed only the desires of the men doing business on the street. This appeared to Mr. Kramer to be an extraordinary request.

The board said the favorites of the brick pavement claimed that they favored brick solely because they thought it to be the best material. Mr. Erwin answered that if this was the case granite blocks should be used, as it was undoubtedly the best street that could be laid for heavy hauling. Both Mr. Kramer and Mr. Meyer say they favor asphalt for paving purposes generally, but thought that brick should be used here. as it was a more suitable pavement for hauling. Mr. Kramer said the board had endeavored to give the property owners and tenants on South Meridian street the best sort of a pavement and with this object in view had specified that Portland cement should be used in the concrete upon which the pavement is laid. He also said that before the board took final action upon the kind of material to be used they gave notice of their intention through the newspapers, and expected any persons who were averse to asphalt to appear and make known their objections to the board, and, as known their objections to the bo none appeared, it had presumed that brick would prove acceptable.

The petition favoring asphalt is signed

A petition for grading and graveling the roadway, bowldering the gutters and curbing and paving with brick the sidewalks of Stoughton street, from Brookside avenue to a point 200 feet east of Sterling street. City Engineer Brown recommended that Contractor Hannihan, who constructed the McCarty-street sewer, be required to give additional bond for the replacement of asphalt where removed from pavements before he was paid cash for the work. The object of requiring the bond is to afford sufficient delay to permit the dirt filled in the street to settle.

IDLE ASPHALT MEN. They Will Ask Council to Order Alabama Street Paved.

The men who have usually been employed by the asphalt companies will appear before the Council Monday night and ask that body pass to pass the ordinances for asphalting Alabama street. The companies usually employ about one thousand men but on account of having no work to do the men are now idle. The property owners on the street who are opposed to asphalt threaten to "get even" at the polls if the Council passes the ordinances. It is known that one or two of the members of the streets and alleys committee, to which the ordinances were referred, are opposed to asphalt, and it is not improbable that the committee will report unfavorably upon the

To Open West First Street.

A delegation was before the Works Board yesterday asking for the opening of First street, from West street to Fall creek. West of Fall creek there is a good road, and the petitioners say the County Com-missioners would build a bridge over the creek if the street were opened to it. The city engineer will be asked to make an estimate of the cost of the opening before it is ordered. The property owners on West Washing-ton street are urging the board to hurry up the improvement of the street. They say they want a permanent street. Rehearing in Brewery Case.

Jacob Bieler, one of the brewery agents, has asked Controller Trusler to delay a time in proceeding to the collection of the license fee. He says the agents will ask for a re-hearing. The charter giving the right to license the sale of liquors provides that the license required shall not be higher than that allowed by statute to be charged in other cities of the State.

Ash-Street Improvement.

The Ash-street improvement may find its way into the Council. Property owners upon the street have filed a remonstrance against paving the street with asphalt, and ask that it be graveled. The board will not order gravel, and if the remonstrance contains the necessary two-thirds of the property owners it will be sent to the Council to act

BRAVE MRS. WALTERS.

She Takes a Revolver and Goes After Two Robbers.

Mrs. John Walters, of No. 219 Fletcher avenue, early Monday morning, proved that she has little fear of robbers and the like. Mr. Walters is away traveling the greater part of the time, and Mrs. Walters is at home alone. Yesterday morning, about 4 o'clock, she was awakened by some one walking on the floor of the room above where she was sleeping. She listened and | and the dentist produced his diagram to again heard the steps. Seizing a revolver, which she always, keeps near at hand, she quietly opened a rear door and stepped out | fillings of gold on the mesial surface, that into the back vard, dressed only in her night clothes, notwithstanding the extreme cold. The robbers, two in number, had reached a second-story window by means of a ladder, which they had placed against he side of the house, and had gained er trance by smashing in the glass. They had succeeded in locating the silverware when they heard Mrs. Walters open the rear door. They jumped through an-other window on to the kitchen roof, and thus exposed themselves to Mrs. Walters, who was waiting for them. She fired two shots in quick succession point-blank at them, but the bullets took no effect, as the robbers leaped from the roof into the side yard and disappeared through a gate. The Call for a New Party to Be Organized Here Next Month.

From the tone of a "call" issued a day or two ago it would seem that a new political party threatens birth. Under the caption, "A New Party," all believers in the "initiative and referendum" are requested to meet at the courthouse on Saturday, April 7. It is further made known to the public that the meeting is for the purpose of issuing a call for a State convention, when a State ticket will be nominated. It is also announced that "initiative and referendum is to be the basic principles of political ac-The call, it appears, was sent out by C. Y. Edkins, of Greensburg, who announces himself temporary secretary.

Doubtless Mr. Edkins is prepared to explain just what the "initiative and referendum" involves. Many who have read the call are ridiculously ignorant, and confess that they are densely stupid as to the title of the party about to be born. No doubt there will be a large gathering of the inquisitive on the date mentioned. Every belever in the "initiative and referendum" should embrace this rare opportunity of becoming a charter member.

DASHES INTO THE FLAMES.

An Italian Saves Two Children at a Kentucky-Avenue Fire.

Yesterday afternoon, about 1 o'clock, fire was discovered in the tenement structure at Nos. 17 and 19 Kentucky avenue, occupied by several Italian and Greek familles. The front part of the lower room is occupied by a fruit store, and in the rear room on the same floor is a candy-making establishment. The fire started in this apartment, and was under good headway pefore it was discovered. The entire colony, including the women and children, rushed into the street and created much excitement by their hoarse cries and choice foreign epithets as the flames were seen to envelope their possessions. At this point one of the women cried out that her two children were confined in a room in that part of the building where the flames were burning fiercest. One of the men, without moment's nesitation, rushed into the building through the blinding smoke and hot flames, and soon appeared with the two children safe in his arms. The fire department arriving, the flames were soon extinguished with a loss estimated at about

WARM WEATHER EXPECTED.

Cold Snap, However, Kills Most of the Fruit Buds.

Indiana fruit growers assert that the strong wind which has blown at the rate of eighteen miles an hour for the last two days, bringing with it a temperature as low as 20 degrees below freezing, has been disastrous to the fruit crop. Early apples, plums and cherries have probably been chilled to death, while many garden products not hardy enough to stand the freeze have been killed. The peach buds - those that were not killed in January-have undoubtedly succumbed to the March blast. In many localities of the city gas con-sumers are complaining loudly. The gas pressure on some of the lines was so light yesterday and Sunday that people found it impossible to keep comfortably warm. Many of the small creeks over the State are frozen solid. The weather bureau informs the public that in Manitoba the mercury is 20 degrees below zero, but it also gives out the cheerful information that a higher temperature may be expected right away.

Annual Township Assessment. The annual assessment of township property will begin on Monday. Assessor Wolf has divided the city and township into forty-nine districts, each district to be under the charge of a deputy. Four special deputies will assess the business concerns and heavy taxpayers. The third enrollment of army survivors and their widows and orphans is to be made this year. Since the Attorney-general has held that paid-up building association stock and money invested in tax title certificates is taxable, the assessment schedule will this year contain these items, although last year the county board of review decided a case improper where an assessment had been made on money invested in tax title certificates.

Last Day for His Queue.

The friends of Moy Lee Sing, who is confined at the workhouse, are very much alarmed over the report that the authorities intend to cut off his queue. This will be done to-day if Sing's release is not effected by his friends, who are attempting to get an appeal to the Criminal Court.
The difficulty experienced by them is that they are unable to raise the required bond.

HIS TEETH ON RECORD

Willard Blanch Probably the Man Whose Body Was Found.

Close Identification by a Dentist-Rifle Found on the Canal Bank-A Faint Clew.

The identification of the body found in the canal bank morass on Saturday as that of Willard Blanch, as announced in the Journal yesterday morning, was completed yesterday afternoon by a careful examination made by Dr. Robert Oliver, the dentist, of the teeth in the skull of the dead man. There is but little room for a mistake, so closely did the description Dr. Oliver had on file compare with the teeth taken from the skull by the coroner, who is also now positive that the remains are those of Blanch. Superintendent Powell was present yesterday afternoon when the examination was made, and he has his detectives now working on a clew that may lead to some interesting developments.

The identification by the teeth was somewhat unusual, but it was made thoroughly reliable by the record which Dr. Oliver keeps of all the work he does. He has blank diagrams of the human teeth and the work on a patient is sketched on one of these diagrams. Different colored inks are used for the different operations, and the drawings made indicate every peculiarity about the filling or the operation on the teeth. Blanch first came to Dr. Oliver four years ago, and up to Oct. 16, 1891, had six teeth treated. The dentist was fairly well acquainted with the man, and, in addition to the work on the teeth, further aids in identifying the skeleton at the morgue. Coroner Beck brought the teeth he had taken from the skull to Dr. Oliver, make a comparison. The diagram showed that the two central incisors had conteur is, between the two teeth. The work on these two teeth was done in May, 1891. Previous to that time Blanch had had one of these same teeth filled, but, one of the teeth coming in contact with a spoon, a portion of the enamel had broken off. This necessitated a peculiar filling in order to give a foundation. The gold was placed on the tooth in the shape of an "L." Both of the central incisors taken from the skull correspond perfectly with the description. The diagram showed that the right lateral incisor had been extracted for the relief of an alveolar abscess, and both Dr. Oliver and the coroner had seen evidence in the skull where there had been just such an abscess, and where the tooth had been removed. The left lateral tooth had been filled temporarily with cement, which had partially worn away, and when Dr. Oliver referred to the diagram there was the proper description of this tooth. There were now two more teeth that had been "My diagram," said Dr. Oliver, "shows that the left superior cuspid and the bicuspid had been treated, the nerves killed, and the nerve canal of the teeth filled. If one of these teeth is filed open you will find the little red material in the nerve canal if the body is that of Blanch." Dr. Oliver's assistant, in the presence of the coroner, filed one of the teeth apart, and there was the red filling in the nerve canal, just as the dentist had described it. "Not in two cases in one hundred thousand "Not in two cases in one hundred thousand would you find six teeth treated in exactly this manner." said the dentist. "I remember seeing Blanch wear a soft hat such as found near his body. I remember the K. of P. pin, and I think I remember seeing the alligator tooth on his cravat."

Blanch's father, who lives at Frankfort, was present, and he was convinced that it was his son's body which was found on the canal bank. The young man, when last seen, was leaving the lodging house of Mrs. W. D. Chitwood, at 211 East Washington street. During the latter part of ington street. During the latter part of last May he had been ill, complaining of severe headaches. While he was confined to his room a committee from the K. of P. Lodge, No. 97, called on him. He had very little money, but his father had promised to pay for his board. The father intended to come to Indianapolis early in June, but had been detained at Frankfort through sickness. He wrote his son that he would come down as soon as he was able to leave Frankfort Early in June Blanch left the lodging house one day, telling Mrs. Chitwood that he was going out of the city. He left his watch with her to give to his father, and told her to also turn over to his father, and told her to also turn over to his father the clothing which he left, and, in case his father did not appear, to give the clothing to the first beggar that came along. At that time he was moody and complaining of headaches. Mr. Chitwood feels confident that the clothing on the body found Saturday is the same as that worn by Blanch when he disappeared. He also says that in the evenings Blanch was in the habit of occasionally going out to Fairview Park for the fresh air. Before his disappearance Blanch wrote his father that he was going to visit a brother in Chicago, but inquiry afterward showed that he had not been in that city. The father of Blanch heard yesterdary that a colored man had told a friend that Blanch had gone with him on a stock car to Den-ver last summer, and that he was working in a saloon there. The manner in which the negro told the story will cause the superintendent of police to hunt for him. The negro said that Blanch had formerly worked in Denver in 1886, but this is not

Last fall, O. W. Sicklin, an employe of the waterworks company, found a rusty rifle within a short distance from where the body was found. Water works employes say that towards the close of the summer they noticed an unusual stench in the neighborhood of the Lee farm, but no investigation was made. The man found might have been shot, the bullet passing through the body and either burying itself in the ground or finding its way some distance from the place where the body was lying. Coroner Beck came to the conclusion, last night, that it was a case of suicide, although he finds several facts that would dispel this theory. The wire fence that was near the little spring where the children made their discovery was undisturbed, and from this it would seem that the body was not carried to the place where it was found. The rifled pockets and the empty pocketbook, however, keep the suicide theory from being a clear one, unless, perchance, some one came along afterwards and robbed the dead body. Coroner Beck has sent Constable Brumley to Broad Ripple to summon Sicklin, the man who found the rifle last fall, to attend the inquest to-day.
